I'm a Freelance photographer with a subscription to the association of journalists. I'm focused in interior design, travel and portrait photograph. I was born in Milan in 1986 where I still live and work. After a degree in Architecture, I studied Design at Brunel University in London. I attended a biennial master in fine art photography at Fondazione Fotografia Moderna. I work for many magazines especially in the field of interior design and portrait. At the same time I develop artistic projects through the use of photography and video focused primarily on the identity and relationship between man and living space. My works have been exhibited in various exhibitions and galleries.
